

Greetings Friends,

On the 3rd December we lost our dear Tata, Nelson Mandela and although it was expected, it was still a shock and sad day it was for all. Tata, what an inspiration you have been to us all - your humility, your grace and your strength. May you rest in peace and may we remember your values and teachings forever.

The world is now looking upon us more than ever - as South Africans we need to stand strong and continue what Madiba started.

This silly season let's take this time to cherish our family, and enjoy our loved ones. Let's take this time to focus on the more important things like love, truth and honesty. We have a lot to be grateful for in our beautiful country, but we also have a lot still to accomplish. Only we as a nation can do so, but together and united.

Wishing you a blessed festive season for you and your loved ones.

Until next time...

Kamille
